WEST VIRGINIA, West

In Wyoming County near Huff Mountain, Paynter Branch washed out a private bridge. A private bridge was also washed out along Elk Creek in Logan County. Water was reported around some buildings in Oceana. Flooding was more severe along Huff Creek in Logan County, including the Gillman Bottom vicinity. Damage assessment had 2 frame homes and 1 mobile home destroyed. Runoff from the steep mountainside pushed and stacked rocks plus debris to the second floor of 1 home. The resident said, "I just had my house remodeled, now it's totally destroyed. There's about 10 feet of rock washed down on my house. It must of been a cloudburst." Four homes had major damage. Several homes lost access to roads since small private bridges were damaged. Route 10 was flooded and closed.

A second round of showers and thunderstorms in the afternoon caused minor flooding of roads around Ravencliff and also around Herndon in Wyoming County.
